Interview Summary
Two youth were individually interviewed, ages 13 and 16, with stays in the program of 2 years and 6 months, respectively. Both gave examples of how the program is helping them, that they feel safe, and staff are trusting. Their peer community is fine, peers could be kinder to each other, food is good and plentiful, and there's been no issues getting medications as prescribed. They report the agency does well at their approach of teaching, vs. "being bossy", and talking about life skills. When asked if they could change anything about the program, they reported that the agency could be stricter with the rules around swearing language, intervene with youth to be kinder, to allow youth to have their electronics more, and more staff to accommodate transportation to various activities, i.e., school games. They described recreation and activities on-and-off site. They have regular phone calls with approved contact people, and there are two specific areas to have those calls in privacy.

Observations
Upon entrance, the living and dining room, and kitchen were clean, tidy, and decorated for the holidays. Youth were doing a variety of activities in the conference and dining rooms. Downstairs, the youths' individual bedrooms, two dorm room areas, both bathrooms, and the laundry room were observed to be clean, odor free, and in good repair. There's a fist sized hole in the wall at one youth's beds from being punched, and it's scheduled to be repaired. The recreation center was observed to be clean, tidy, and odor free. The agency reported that the heater had just went out, and a new one is ordered for replacement.
