Program Description(s) as provided by Looking Glass:
Regional Crisis Center (RCC): Provides residential, subacute mental health treatment services for youth of all genders, ages 12 to 18. The length of stay for youth can vary based on clinical need and treatment progress. Upon successful completion of the program youth will discharge to a community-based setting.

Adjudicated Youth Services (AYS) aka Pathways Girls Program (PGP):
BRS Intensive Residential program (formerly level 5) that provides behavioral, mental health, and substance use treatment to youth age 12-20, on parole or probation under the jurisdiction of the Oregon Youth Authority. AYS serves youth either assigned female at birth or those that identify as female or non-binary. AYS operates under a Restorative Justice and Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT) framework that emphasizes repairing harm and living by core values.
The program includes individual, family, and group counseling as well as individual and group skills training. Most youth stay an average of 6 to 9 months before graduating from the program and moving to a lower level of care, often in the community. Referrals come solely from the Oregon Youth Authority, and on rare occasions, child welfare.

Program type and services:
Regional Crisis Center (RCC):

Residential Treatment
The Regional Crisis Center provides 24-hour supervised group living combined with clinical treatment in a therapeutic setting. Youth learn new skills and behaviors, and as they increase their responsibility, they are rewarded with privileges appropriate to the recovery process. Youth and families work with counselors to create individualized service and support plans to determine their goals and the activities to achieve them. These plans address areas such as mood and behavior regulation, social skills, and family centered relational therapy.

Mental Health Treatment

The program will utilize evidence-based practices (EBP's) to support youth within a structured and therapeutic environment. Under the guidance of the Clinical Director and the Medical Director, the program provides a treatment model conducive to stabilization and progress specific to Individual Service and Support Plans. All team members will be trained in the use of Collaborative Problem Solving and have access to additional EBP's based on individual client needs. Team members will also be trained in the use of the crisis intervention model Pro-ACT

Substance Use Disorders Treatment

Regional Crisis Center partners with trained staff from other Looking Glass programs to provide treatment for substance abuse and dependence issues, if needed. Treatment may include individual and group work.

Academic Instruction/Education

The state-certified on-site school provides lessons in language arts, math, health education, living skills, speech/communications, and physical education. Some youth prepare for GED tests while others earn credit toward high school diplomas.

Family Counseling

A youth's family and/or caregivers are integral to successful treatment. Clinicians meet regularly with youth and their identified caregivers to assist with communication and conflict resolution within the family dynamic. Youth and families will be building on already existing positive interactions and supports. Parents and families are strongly encouraged to spend time observing and visiting the program. Home visits can be scheduled so that families can make use of skills introduced in the program either at home or with the family.

Recreation

Youth participate in a variety of recreation experiences such as swimming, bowling, hiking and field trips. These activities allow youth to improve trust, teamwork, and problem-solving skills. The activities are designed to demonstrate healthy and safe ways to have fun and release energy.

Adjudicated Youth Services (AYS)

Residential Treatment—Youth work with their case manager to create an individualized services plan which is reviewed every 45 days with their entire treatment team. Youth follow a daily schedule that includes groups, school, recreation, and meals.

Mental health therapy—Youth complete a mental health assessment upon intake to the program through a credentialed mental health therapist that informs their service plan and interventions in program. Youth then participate in weekly therapy to address mental health needs that impact activities of daily living. Family therapy is also available and often recommended if the youth is returning to their family following successful completion of program. The mental health therapist hosts one group per week where youth can process thoughts and emotions while gaining support and camaraderie from their peers.

Substance Use treatment—Youth complete a substance use assessment upon intake by a CADC-I counselor which informs their service plan. Youth then meet with their substance use counselor weekly (if recommended by assessment) to address recovery. Youth will create a relapse prevention plan within this context.

Education—Youth attend school on site and work with a licensed teacher towards their high school diploma or GED through credit recovery, one on one tutoring, and some group classes or activities.

Recreation—Youth participate in a variety of recreational activities including trips to the YMCA, local parks, walks, and community outings.

Interviews, Observations:
Regional Crisis Center (RCC):
Interviews: The week prior to the review, licensing was on site at RCC and participated in a client interview conducted by Treatment Services Katie Wyland. Two additional client interviews were conducted at the time of the review. The Treatment Services interview followed a template and was intended to collect specific information for use by Treatment Services. The form and notes are on file with the report.

The first client interviewed during the review had been at the program approximately two months. Client stated they did not feel very involved in their service planning, but this was due to the client feeling like they were only there for substance abuse issues and not anything else the staff were attempting to include in the overall service plan. Client also said they feel like nothing has been done to help them reach their goals. They stated things have gotten worse and they have started self-harming due to a peer passing them a sharp. Staff were aware of this situation and took necessary steps to resolve it. Client had access to medical/dental and had recently been seen by the dentist. Client did state they had been involved in a restraint which had caused them some pain in their ribs. Client stated they did not see a doctor but were assessed by nursing staff. Client felt school needed to be more structured and they mostly did art and did not have any core classes or actual assignments. Client is not in high school so is unable to earn credits toward graduation. Management provided additional information on this and stated youth are able to let the teacher's know what areas they would like to study so there was opportunity for client to study core classes and request "homework" or assignments. Client said they get large muscle exercise at least twice a day. Client stated sometimes their peers would make them feel unsafe due to escalations, but staff are present and engaged. Client said there are a lot of personal items that get lost, but they had not had any of their own personal items go missing. Client stated there wasn't follow-up on several grievances they had filed (licensing following up with management on resolutions from the grievances).

Second client interviewed has been at RCC for about three and a half months. They stated they feel involved in their service planning and have learned to better cope with stress since being in the program. Client said they have recently been to both the doctor and dentist. Client stated school was mostly good and they are working on math, science and reading. They felt the learning would be better on the computer instead of paper. Client recently completed state testing at the program and feels there is plenty of adult help when needed for schoolwork. They trust staff, especially Caitlin ("the big, big boss") and felt mostly safe in the program. Client stated they feel respected by some staff and have several favorites. They also said there are other staff who are not respectful and punish youth for no reason. Client was unable to provide any specific examples. Client stated they wished there were more opportunities to be outside, but said they get enough exercise and physical activity.

Adjudicated Youth Services (AYS): Two clients were interviewed at AYS (Pathways Girls Program). The first client has been at the program over nine months total, but is on their second stay. Client stated they feel safe in the program, but also had concerns with some staff. Client said some staff are not professional and when discussing phone calls and phone use, put out to the group that client had a caseworker which client did not want others to know about. Client also stated staff do not monitor conversations closely enough and there is a lot of inappropriate conversations and body shaming that occurs and staff are not aware of it. Client isn't currently in school due to graduating early and is excited about a potential opportunity to volunteer at another Looking Glass program. Client said the food is decent and they get plenty to eat. Client relayed the groups are not always relevant to their situation and sometimes finds difficulty participating. Client also said grads only have a life skills group which is very repetitive. Client feels like any concerns they have can be taken to their case manager or the program manager and they help resolve or provide a reason why things are the way they are. Client stated some staff don't listen and make them feel disregarded. They said they are provided good support within the treatment team.

Second client has been in the program approximately six weeks and said it is great so far. Client said staff are all really good and do their jobs. Staff keep everyone safe and they really care about the clients. Client stated they have weekly chores and are expected to keep their rooms clean. Client said school is great and they work a good pace for them. Client said sometimes there is not enough staff to facilitate phone calls. Client stated staff monitor the calls and watch their body language but still feel like they have privacy within their conversation. Client wanted to have a little more outside time and also wished for a little more phone time. Client stated the food was delicious and depending on staff the portion sizes were sometimes more generous. Client felt staff do a really great job of keeping everyone safe.
