Executive Director: Simon Fulford
Board Chairperson: Glen Wachter

Date of site visit: 10/08/2024

Other Regulatory or Accrediting Agencies: Oregon Youth Authority

Program Compliance: The program was found to be compliant or will be compliant with OAR 419-400-0005 to 419-400-0310, Licensing Umbrella Rules, and OAR 419-470-0010 to 419-470-0180, Licensing Residential Care Agencies Rules. Personnel records were reviewed and compliance with required background checks was documented for employees in all programs.

Program Description(s): long term residential treatment program for adolescent boys with a focus on developing sustainable and prosocial behaviors and skills that help them reach their full potential.

Program type and services: Residential

Capacity and Age Range: 21, males ages 13-18

Funding sources: Oregon Youth Authority

Contracts and sources for referrals: BRS and OYA

Average length of stay: 9-14 months

Average daily population served: 16

Number of children served annually: 54

Use of seclusion or restraint: The program utilizes restraints with CPI as their training program.

Interviews, Observations: A tour was conducted as a part of the licensing site review. The program is currently occupying a leased property in Lake Oswego while a completely new set of buildings are being built at their permanent Oregon City location. The facility was clean and in good repair. Bedrooms were well furnished, decorated, and clean. Bathrooms were also very clean. Common spaces were uncluttered and functional.

Irvin Minten randomly selected and individually interviewed 3 youth enrolled in the program and 2 staff who worked at the program.

During interviews with the 3 youth, each of the youth described the program as being a good program and all stated the program was teaching them skills to better manage and regulate their behaviors and emotions. Each of the youth also stated they felt safe in the program both during the day and at night and each of the youth liked that they had individual bedrooms. Each of the youth also reported they believed staff in the program were adequately trained to effectively assist them in meeting their needs and addressing their issues. One of the youth stated when you do something wrong, program staff will give you “an opportunity to be honest,” as they did not want youth to feel like they had to “lie.” Another youth stated that program staff were “cool” since they played cards and basketball with them. Each of the youth also described the food served at the program as being pretty good to good, and all stated they could have a second helping of food, if they were still hungry. In addition, each of the youth denied ever being treated badly by program staff, and all denied ever being placed in a restraint or in seclusion by program staff. Each of the youth also stated they were able to call their parents or approved loved ones at least twice a week. Also, each youth was aware of their discharge plan and stated they participated in their treatment planning. Finally, when asked if they would change anything, 2 youth stated they wished some of the staff would play basketball with them more or talk with them more throughout the day, and one of the youth stated he wished he could still call his girlfriend. One of the youth stated they would change nothing about the program.

During individual interview with the 2-program staff, both stated they enjoyed working for the agency, that the culture of the agency was both supportive and positive, and both stated they enjoyed working with the youth and seeing most of the youth make positive changes in their lives. Both staff also described an agency culture which allowed for staff of all levels to provide input into decision making, to suggest and make changes to staff processes if they believed the change in process could make things better, as well as a culture which supported any and all questions by staff. Both staff also described the training provided by the program as good, that the training provided assisted them in effectively doing their job, and that if they wanted to learn more about a topic, their supervisor would most likely support their continued learning and do all they could to see that they received the training. Also, each of the staff was able to effectively describe the program’s suicide prevention protocol, and they also stated that if they had a question, there was always someone available to ask. Finally, when asked if they would change anything to make the agency and the work they do better, one staff could not think of anything and the other stated they wished that the turnover of line staff would slow down, as it took a great deal of energy to hire and effectively train new staff.

Program Strengths: From the Program: Parrott Creek uses a mindfulness bases model paired with Collaborative Problem solving that allows us to create safe and trusting relationships with you. This allows us to engage the youth in being a part of the solution and teaches them long term internal skills.

Program Challenges: From the program: We are in a temporary location while our new facility is being built. This has been a challenge for the youth and staff to get used to the physical space.

Changes that have occurred in the last 2 years: Moved into a temporary location.

Lawsuits: None

Grievances and complaints filed in the last two years: None

Corrective Actions and Timeframes: Please submit the following to verify compliance.

Within 45 days of receipt of this report (insert name of agency) must submit a letter of verification indicating the agency is in compliance with the specific rules cited above and describing how compliance will be maintained going forward. Along with the letter of verification, the agency must submit any and all specific documentation requested in the body of this report. The letter of verification and any additional requested documents can be emailed directly to (Licensing Coordinator and email address).

Recommendations: The program is providing documentation to clients about reporting wrongful restraint, however they are not currently documenting in the client file that this is occurring. It is recommended that they add documentation around wrongful restraint reporting to the client file.

Exceptions: None

Changes in License: Licensed location changed as a part of the temporary site change.
