Report Description: Child's Name: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]) Per staff report on 3/29/25 at approximately 0700: Resident was in his room, sitting on his bed reading when staff heard an unusual noise. Staff entered the room to check on the resident and found the resident lying on the bed with his eyes rolled back, making gurgling sounds. Staff called for a nurse who arrived immediately. Nurse entered the room and found the resident supine with eyes partially open and eyeballs rolled backwards. Nurse heard gurgling/choking noises coming from the back of the resident's throat. Nurse attempted to rouse the resident, but resident was not responsive to voice or touch. Nurse noted a strong scent of urine and wet areas on the resident's pants and sheets. Skin diaphoretic and hot to palpation. Capillary refill less than 2 seconds in fingers bilaterally with no cyanosis noted. Pulse 3+, regular rhythm, rate 130 bpm. Respiratory rate 20 breaths per minute, respirations audible and wet. Nurse attempted to apply pulse oximeter, but unable to get o2 saturation reading due to diaphoresis. At 0702, the resident began to groan and move his fingers. O2 saturation immediately obtained, 83% on RA. Nurse attempted to encourage resident to take deep breaths, but resident was disoriented, lethargic, and confused. O2 saturation remained between 83% and 90% on RA until 0710. At 0711, APRN was contacted and ordered the resident to be sent to [REDACTED] for evaluation. When resident became oriented, he reported that he did not know what happened.
